

Warhawk University

“TRAIN to Win”

What is Warhawk University? A system to manage and maximize training and learning resources within the 37th Training Wing by sharing them across the groups and with mission partners. Volunteers from the Training & Development Council work together to build and maintain monthly events to give Airmen opportunities to grow in their personal and professional lives.

The Gateway to the Air Force

- Warhawk University is the 37th TRW's commitment to providing wing members with developmental opportunities to unlock their own potential.
- Our mission requires strong partnerships in training to help bridge gaps, increase opportunities, and provide different perspectives to help us grow and innovate.
- Each group within the 37th TRW will stand up its own Training & Development Council, to help spread the word about Warhawk U as well as address the specific needs of the individuals within their group.

Find Opportunities Weekly

Events, presentations and developmental opportunities can be found on the Warhawk University calendar. Scan the QR code to access the calendar, or download the TeamUp app from the Apple and Android app stores.

Training & Development Council Lines of Effort

Collect opportunities for development by identifying talent within for train-the-trainer events. Advertise visiting talent to ensure maximum exposure.

Distribute those opportunities to our Total Force population (2.7K) via our dynamic calendar, weekly newsletter, and our sub-council leaders.

Assist in building partnerships with other Department of Defense, Government, academic and private partners to enhance training and develop Airmen.

Assess the needs of our population with proven, data-driven survey tools. Constantly evaluate Warhawk University's operations and successes.

Trust our Resilient Airmen to Innovate, Train and Nurture.
