

The Hawk Talk

The 37TRW weekly rundown of events, news and need-to-know information

Dec. 6, 2021

Warhawks:

This week Chief Morgan and I are TDY at Sheppard AFB with other AETC leadership teams for the Gathering of Falcons. Many thanks to our teammates in 82 TRW for hosting us this week at the 2nd largest Training Wing in the AF.

This past weekend I read some informative guidance from the Interim National Security Strategy on the People's Republic of China. It's China's goal to interrupt our partnership/alliances in the PACOM region to gain a stronger foothold in the region. This makes the work we're doing with DLIELC and IAAFA all the more relevant in today's current fight. We may not be directly on the front lines on our current pacing challenge with China but we are providing heavy supporting fires.

Big changes to DAFI36-2903 just took effect, including hands in pockets, men's hair bulk standards, wear of the tactical cap, eyelashes, facial hair standards, cell phone use and more. Make sure you're following the new standards and check out the new AFI HERE.

Speaking of change, in case you haven't heard, two of our wing websites – the 37 TRW and BMT – are undergoing a new Air Force-wide design change. This week the websites will look the same as normal; the PA staff will be making changes behind the scenes but nothing new will be added or updated. The new design debuts next Monday, so stay tuned. In the meantime, if there's any important news we need to share with you, please check our many social media accounts.

AROUND THE WARHAWK WING

DLIELC Annual Program Review Set for 12 Feb

The Defense Language Institute English Language Center Annual Program Review date has officially been set for 12 Feb 22 in San Antonio. This meeting is a significant opportunity to report to Department of Defense Senior Language Authorities and major external stakeholders each year. Providing an overview of our previous year and current Defense English Language Program initiatives, progress, and way-ahead is important because it allows direct communication with Senior Language Authorities that represent Military Departments around the world. This relationship is vital for an organization like the Defense Language Institute English Language Center as it serves as a leader in the global security cooperation. The diligence that the Defense Language Institute English Language Center embodies continues to impress our global and domestic partners and leaders.

DLIELC Hosts Honorary Commanders on Campus

On 2 Dec, DLIELC hosted the Wing Honorary Commanders. The mission of the Honorary Commanders Program is twofold; one, to educate key community leaders about a unit's mission and to foster a supportive relationship with the community, increase military involvement in civic endeavors and organizations and make members of the local community feel part of the unit.

IAAFA

IAAFA Conducts First Ever 'Operación Jaguar'

The academy conducted a week-long training capstone exercise with International Military Students at Camp Bullis. This commemorative exercise included a total of 6 courses operating in a deployed coalition environment. Students operationalized learned objectives throughout their respective courses such as land navigation, intel gathering, logistics planning, command and control operations and troop leading procedures.
